

Getting to Greenville

- From Rocky Mount: Take NC 43 South (From US 64 go East to N. Raleigh St., go east to Springfield Rd., then south to Cokey Rd. then east on Cokey Rd.) through Pinetops and on to Greenville. Cross over US 264 and continue on to NC 11 (Memorial Drive). Turn Right on Memorial and go to the 4th stoplight (Arlington Blvd.) and turn left. Go through 4 stoplights and then take the second left onto Turtle Creek Road, between the Condominiums, to Oakmont Dr. Turn right on Oakmont, go around the curve, and UUCG is toward the end on your left.
 - Alternate routes from Rocky Mount: You can also take US 64 East to Tarboro and then take NC 33 East to Greenville, or continue to Bethel and take NC 11 South as noted below in the Outer Banks directions. Irregardless, you will need to follow NC 11 South (Memorial Drive) to Arlington Blvd.
- From Northeastern NC: If coming from the Northeast (Elizabeth City, Edenton, etc.) take US 17 South to Williamston. In Williamston, US 17 South and US 64 West will run together. From that point, continue following US 64 West and follow the directions from the Outer Banks below.
- From the Outer Banks: Coming from the Outer Banks, take US 64 West to Williamston. At this point, you have 3 different options on how to get to Greenville, depending on your driving preferences.
 - Easiest, most comfortable: Continue on US 64 West to Exit 496 (NC 11 - Bethel). Take NC 11 South toward Greenville. Be aware that on the bypass around Bethel, there are often speed traps. This route is the most comfortable, 4-lanes divided the whole way to Greenville, but isn't the fastest.
 - Middle option: Continue on US 64 West to NC 903 - Robersonville (don't know the exit number, somewhere in the low-500s) Take NC 903 South through Robersonville (and you go right through downtown). NC 903 will take you to NC 11 just north of Greenville, where you will turn left and continue following NC 11 South. Also note that NC 903 does come to an intersection between the Pitt- Martin County Line and the town of Stokes, where you will make a right, but the directions are clearly marked. This route will save you maybe 5 minutes on your trip, but includes considerably more 2-lane driving.
 - Fastest route, most challenging: Take US 64 West to NC 125, just west of Williamston. Turn left toward the Bob Martin Agricultural Center (should be labeled as toward Greenville as well). Once you pass the Agricultural Center, NC 125 ends and you are on Prison Camp Road, but the road continues, none the less. There are some curvy portions, but it will take you to NC 903 just north of the Pitt-Martin County line. Turn left onto NC 903 and follow the directions above. This route cuts at more of a diagonal and direct route to Greenville and can save you about 10 minutes over the longest option.

Once all three routes come back together just north of Greenville, continue south on NC 11 (Memorial Drive) past the airport and over the Tar River. After crossing the river, continue to the 6th stoplight (Arlington Blvd.) and turn left. Go through 4 stoplights and then take the second left onto Turtle Creek Road, between the Condominiums, to Oakmont Dr. Turn right on Oakmont, go around the curve, and UUCG is toward the end on your left.
